Steel workers vent anger

SCOTT COUSINS / Press-Record

Granite City Steel employees sign a sheet of steel to be sent to President Clinton to protest what they believe to be his inaction on foreign steel dumping during a pro-American steel rally at the plant Tuesday. The steel industry's "Stand Up for Steel" campaign organized the rally, which stopped in Alton on Monday and will cross the nation before ending up in Washington.

As union representatives and management officials watched and talked to each other and reporters, workers at the Granite City Division, National Steel Corp., came by during shift changes Tuesday and signed a series of steel sheets in protest of President Bill Clinton's inaction in what industry officials say is a major crisis.

The effort is part of Stand Up For Steel, designed to force the Clinton administration to take a stronger stand against "dumping" of steel by foreign companies.

In addition to signing the steel sheets, they were also collecting letters to take to government officials.

After a rally at Laclede Steel in Alton Monday, the "road show" was at Granite City all day Tuesday.

"We're not really happy at all at what the Clinton administration has done," said Jim Squires, Granite City Steel's senior vice president. "We're trying to catch the attention of the public and also the administration."

According to the U.S. Commerce Department, the second quarter of 1998 showed the highest steel import volumes in U.S. history. Steel imports from Japan during the first six months of 1998 increased 113.7 percent over January to June 1997 and imports from South Korea increased 89.5 percent during the same period.

The International Trade Commission recently approved a preliminary staff recommendation saying that foreign companies are dumping subsidized steel. Subsidies violate basic trade agreements and allow other countries to dramatically undercut U.S. steel prices.

If the companies are found to be dumping steel by the Commerce Department, those imports could face tariffs of up to 200 percent.

In addition, President Clinton recently announced $800 million in tax credits for companies hurt by the dumping, but industry and union officials are far from happy about that.

"We want to put pressure on the administration to stop the illegal importation of steel into the country that is costing American jobs," said Frank Cavarretta, assistant subdistrict director for Subdistrict 2, District 7, of the United Steelworkers of America. "We've got to get it stopped."

"We've got some favorable preliminary rulings, but it may be as long as 18 months before there are final rulings," he said of the Trade Commission's actions. "In that time, we're going to lose a lot of good jobs."

Granite City losing manufacturing ground to small towns

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Recently released figures show that large manufacturing communities such as Granite City are losing ground to smaller and more rural areas.

According to the Manufacturers' News, a trade publication based in Evanston, the state added 236 manufacturing plants and 6,741 individual jobs during 1998.

However, most of that growth is occurring outside of the 50 largest manufacturing cities in the state.

Using 1998 figures, the 1999 Illinois Manufacturers' Directory reports that the 50 Illinois cities that are each home to at least 5,000 industrial jobs — Granite City ranks 37th — suffered a net loss of 2,102 jobs during the past year.

"Over the past five years, the state numbers haven't strayed much from 23,000 manufacturers and 1.1 million jobs," said Thomas Dubin, president of Manufacturer's News. "It's just that the manufacturing has gotten more dispersed throughout Illinois. There are many factors that account for the shift, including suburban sprawl, taxes, transportation and land."

"Retail and service businesses are willing to pay top dollar for the high-visibility and high-pedestrian sites," he said. "Manufacturers, who can produce their products anywhere, focus primarily on the cost of doing business in any given municipality."

Statistics show that in the top 50 manufacturing cities in Illinois, the number of jobs decreased to 630,488 in 1999 from 663,702 in 1996.

Meanwhile, the total number of manufacturing jobs outside those cities rose to 454,067 in 1999 from 441,846.

During that time, Granite City lost a total of 191 industrial jobs, going to 6,275 from 6,426.

Two local men arrested on separate sex charges

One current Alorton police officer

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Two Granite City men, one a police officer for the village of Alorton, were arrested on misdemeanor sex charges Friday in separate incidents.

If convicted on the sex charges, both men would be required to register as sexual offenders.

Thomas M. McGowan, 35, of the 100 block of Wilson Park Lane, was arrested by Madison County deputies Friday on charges of sexual exploitation of a child, a misdemeanor, and felony obstruction of justice charges. The charges resulted from an alleged incident in Granite City on Dec. 25.

McGowan is an officer with the Alorton Police Department and has served with other departments in the past.

Granite City police said McGowan might still be able to serve as a police officer because the misdemeanor conviction would not affect his ability to carry a firearm. However, most departments would not hire someone with such a record.

McGowan was a trooper with the Illinois State Police in the Chicago area from December 1985 to December 1986 but was terminated. A spokesman for the Illinois State Police declined comment on his dismissal.

McGowan later was an officer with the Maryville Police Department for a very short period of time in 1997. However, he was released before completing his probationary period because of what was deemed "unsatisfactory work performance," according to Maryville Police Chief Don Sonnenberg.

Sonnenberg declined further comment, except to say that part of McGowan's personnel file was sealed (See ARRESTS, Page 3A)

SOUND OFF!

To call the Journal "Sound Off!" line, dial 277-9322 and leave your message. We won't print personal attacks or unfair criticism of individuals or businesses. Please keep your comments brief and reasonable.

Unkempt yard an eyesore

I live in Cahokia, and the village has an ordinance about how tall your grass can be. We have a problem. On Harvest Avenue, there is a gentleman who owns a deep lot. He keeps the front of the yard cut and half of the back yard cut. The back half of the yard the grass is 2, sometimes 3 feet deep. This is behind St. Catherine's, and all the other yards look quite well-kept. The village health and housing will not do anything, even after being told several times, and the really sad thing about it is this particular person has two police officers living next door to him. I sure wish the village of Cahokia health and housing would get on this person's case about cutting his grass considering that it has been cut one time since this summer and I know for a fact that this gentleman has had health and housing called on him on several occasions by myself and the neighbors. I'm sick and tired of the good people getting citations for miscellaneous garbage and little things. It's political, I guess.

Spread out house tours

I want to say thank you to all the homeowners that opened their home for the house tours, but I would like to say, too, that a lot of them have them on the same first weekend in December and not too many people can get around to all of them. I wish they'd spread them out over the year so I could see them all.

Republicans trying to take over

I think it's a disgrace how the Republicans are trying to overthrow the government. They're really just trying to take over. We didn't vote them in this last time to take over. Being new to this area, I wasn't aware of the requirements and was charged with a $75 fine. I wish I would have been afforded the same courtesy as city officials' families received when they were given an opportunity to comply with a similar ordinance and they avoided a fine. Apparently, this courtesy is only given to city officials and I will not leave the city with a very good feeling when our family moves in the next year. I feel like I've been singled out as one who didn't understand this. If I had been given the chance to comply with this ordinance, I would have done so as well.

Sign ordinance enforced unfairly

It's a sad situation to see what's going on in government today. I wrote a "Letter to the Editor" last month regarding the fine I received for failing to obtain a garage sale permit. Being new to this area, I wasn't aware of the requirements and was charged with a $75 fine. I wish I would have been afforded the same courtesy as city officials' families received when they were given an opportunity to comply with a similar ordinance and they avoided a fine. Apparently, this courtesy is only given to city officials and I will not leave the city with a very good feeling when our family moves in the next year. I feel like I've been singled out as one who didn't understand this. If I had been given the chance to comply with this ordinance, I would have done so as well.

Collinsville Government

Here we go again in Collinsville. The same cranky old people want to do away with the city manager form of government again. These are the same troublemakers that attack our schools, our library and our parks and recreation district. They have little regard for the future of this city. They just can't get past watching "Wheel of Fortune" and the free coffee at McDonald's. It seems that they are intent on having Collinsville grow old and decrepit like themselves. Of course, in 10 to 15 years, most of them will be gone and it will be our children that will live in the Collinsville they have ruined.

Sound Off! comments right on

I was just reading Sound Off! in the Journal and I think that's a good idea. Have an election without Republicans, give everybody a pack of cigarettes, and believe everything Clinton says.

List the deceased

I am so happy to see the listing of the deceased back on the front page of the Press-Record. Why can't it be on the Journal also? It comes out twice a week, but the Press-Record's only once a week. A person is buried by the time people receive the news. Listings on the front page of the two-times-a-week Journal is the best thing we could have, next to a daily bulletin board.

Where's the other cannon?

I just am curious and many other people have been also: What happened to our other cannon from World War I? It was down on 24th Street and Madison Avenue in Granite City. When they built the gazebo there, the cannon disappeared and no one seems to know where it is.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Belleville football needs good coach

To The Editor:
After leaving the area in 1992, I considered it an omen when I picked up the Journal at my mom's home in Dupu and the first thing to catch my eye was the article on a football coaching change at Belleville West.

Having been involved in helping build football traditions in Dupu and Columbia, I feel that I have had valuable experience in determining what it takes.

Boots Phillips, Jerry Mills and I started little league football in Dupu in the early '70s. At Columbia, Dupu and Cahokia, I fulfilled a lifelong dream of coaching at the varsity level in several different sports, including football, after coaching 10 years of little league.

All successful programs begin with one thing: A successful head coach. Glenn Schott at Althoff, Vergil Fletcher at Collinsville, Bob Shannon at East Side and Joe Germain at Dupu, Waterloo and Columbia are prime examples.

These coaches all have self-sacrificing work ethics, a vast knowledge of the game, an innate desire to excel, superior communication skills and a love for the game that almost exceeds their love for family.

Winning isn't everything, but when you are lucky enough to land one of them, winning becomes a consequence, a consequence that builds pride, confidence, work ethic, teamwork and a community cohesiveness.

For those of you who are going to make the decision on Belleville's future in football, I know you are hoping that you will find someone with these qualifications.

You really don't have to look too far or long. He is a graduate of your school. He was a star quarterback on your team. I'm sure every good athlete usually dreams of returning to his alma mater and building a dynasty — I know I did — but this coach already had the job and was setting winning records.

I have spent days in the summer helping him wash down and paint the fieldhouse so his players would have a clean place to throw down their sweaty uniforms after two-a-days. From a year-round weight program, to a manicured playing field, to T-shirts with slogans, to late hours spent every night watching game film, to hours drawing up game plans on teams that could in no way beat them, the man left no stone unturned.

I am not his close friend and have no idea whether he will apply for the job. I know from past experience that he wanted it so badly at one time that it might have hurt his chances.

The man I recommend has a proven record. If you also want loyalty to the system, an alumni already has it.

He looks over one of the dynasties that Joe Germain built and continued the tradition. If you are looking for these traits and building a tradition in the sport, I urge you to seriously consider a man who has proved his ability would give you his utmost loyalty, and fulfill your dreams of Belleville West returning to their past football glory days.

His name is Gary Mauser. Doug Edwards, Cassville, Mo.

Madison Democrats a troubling lot

To The Editor:
The Democratic Party, by tradition, represents working people. Labor unions, by institution, represent working people.

Working people definitely have a voice, but that voice should include trust: Trust their values are important, that what is "right" and "fair" is a priority.

In Madison County, the policies of the Democratic Party are certainly questionable in some areas.

The Metro-East Sanitary District continues to pay its former director a salary for being an consultant; elected officials of Nameoki Township are employed by the Sanitary District.

Who heads the Sanitary District? The chairman of the Democratic Party in Madison County.

It is surprising that in matters concerning the welfare of the people, that "right" and "fair" is not a priority, but "who" you know or "who" you are related to.

The list of patronage jobs and favors owed for the Democratic politicians of the country is unending. The auditor can only trust his daughter. There is no "conflict of interest" when the director of the Sanitary District is also a Granite City alderman, especially when the Granite City Council plans to annex land in the Dorey Slough area for development, disregarding the flooding issue.

At the Mitchell hearing, an attorney representing the Jennings families, who have already annexed in Granite City, and AmeronUE pleads the case. Why?

Because Granite City politicians have promised a deal to AmeronUE. These are Democratic politicians. The welfare of Southern Illinois, 219 N. Illinois St., Belleville, Ill., 62220. Letters may also be faxed to 376-4240 or to our Belleville offices at 277-7018. Letter writers with computer and e-mail access can also e-mail letters to illinoisn@primary.net

It is time that the working people in Madison County reconsider the Democratic Party in the county. Are their views fully represented by their elected officials? Do these same officials consider the outcome of their decisions on the welfare of the people or only on the size of their bank accounts?

Are the people of Madison County truly satisfied with the status quo of it is time to make Democratic politicians accountable?

An 18-year-old student at the University of High School is facing a felony charge and expulsion after allegedly calling in a bomb threat Monday and was later cited for two previous bomb threats.

Eynon James Dunn, who gave a Collinsville address to police but was cited as a private city resident in the school district, was charged Tuesday with one count of false report of a bomb alarm, a Class 4 felony, and was released after posting bond.

According to police, at about 12:10 p.m. Monday, a school secretary called the police on someone saying there

The report noted that the call came during a break in the classes and the secretary said the voice sounded similar to someone who had placed made similar threats twice this school year.

The school was not evacuated, and the voice was evacuated after a similar threat in September.

Through a combination of tracing the call and an administration search, officials are talking about the threat, they were able to trace the call to Dunn.

In addition to police charges, School Superintendent Steve Balen said Dunn has been suspended.

and the administration was recommending that he be expelled.

"I think it's very serious," he said. "There have been two others (bomb threats) at the school. The first was incredible enough that we evacuated the school.

"It teaches kids that they can't even shut a school down," he added. "I think it's akin to yelling fire in a crowded theater."

Balen also said that if Dunn is actually a Collinsville resident, he would make the suspension and expulsion moot.

"That wouldn't be unusual for kids to sneak in and give someone else's address," he said.

Increased hours and more places to get face-to-face help from the IRS will be available to Illinois Taxpayers during the 1999 tax filing season, according to Robert E. Brazzil, IRS district director for Illinois.

Walk-in service will be provided in 17 locations throughout the state with most being open every day from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and five locations offering four hours of Saturday service. Locally, Fairview Heights (62208), 13 Executive Dr., Suite 4 will be open Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Among the services to be offered are forms distribution assistance with applications for a Taxpayer Identification Number, tax return preparation assistance for copies of tax returns, receipt of tax returns, alien clearances, receipts of payments, Heavy Vehicle Use Tax, tax law assistance accounts and tax adjustments account inquires, procedure inquires, tax law and collection information, payment arrangement applications for Tax Assistance Orders and Problem Resolution.

John Bettorf, vice president of Local 50 of the International Chemical Workers, said members felt betrayed by Clinton, who was heavily backed by labor unions.

Alorton Mayor Callie Mobley said she was "shocked" by the charges.

"Officer McGowan had been doing an excellent job for the village," she said. "It really shocked me."

She referred questions about McGowan's status to Police Chief George Cox, who was unavailable for comment.

On Dec. 27, police responded to a complaint that McGowan had exposed himself and made advances in front of a 15-year-old girl who is related to him.

The girl reported that McGowan did not assault her.

The obstruction of justice charges against McGowan were allegedly asking someone to lie to police about the incident.

In the incident, witnesses reported seeing a nude man outside a parked truck near a group of children in a vacant lot in the 2100 block of Grand at about 4:27 p. m.

When the adult witnesses ran over to the truck, the man, later identified as Valencia, got out and ran. One of the witnesses followed in a car, getting the truck's license plate number. Valencia was last seen at the intersection of Madison and 17th Street.

At about 5 p. m., officers stopped the truck, and one of the witnesses identified Valencia, who was then arrested.

Felony charges have been dropped against four SIU freshmen who entered several dormitory rooms at night, pranked aimed at scaring residents.

In return, the men have agreed to plead guilty to misdemeanor counts of battery and trespassing and to make an apology to the victims, one of whom was allegedly hit by a baseball bat on the night of Oct. 20. They must also perform 20 hours of public service under the direction of the university.

"If you look at all the facts, this is a right outcome in this situation," Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Nevins said.

Three of the four men reached agreement in the case on Oct. 20. The fourth came to terms Monday, Nevins said.

The men, all 18, are: Cris N. Johnson of Country Club Hills; James E. Fountain, of East Carondelet; and Kenneth J. Boudreau, of Chicago. A fourth, son, both of Chicago.

University officials said the men were ordered to wear masks or bandanas to conceal their identities, entered several dormitory rooms at night.

The rooms were apparently selected at random and were in part of the building where doors were unlocked, police said.

Only one specific victim was cited in the charges filed by Southern Illinois University. He is a male, the young man hit by a ball.

"In some cases they pulled individuals out of bed. In some cases they slapped them," Nevins said. Randy Rock, dean of students, said the victims were not injured. "When we looked at the situation, we didn't see any situation or retaliation. It was more like a knucklehead party," he said.

New year brings new perspective to Keshner's children

By Darryl Howlett
Staff writer

The new year has brought a new perspective to life for two siblings.

Margaret Keshner, 23, is adjusting to her new kidney, which she received from her older brother, Joe Keshner, 32. Margaret Keshner is the daughter of Madison County Circuit Judge J. Lawrence Keshner and surgical nurse Mary Keshner. The Keshners have six children.

Margaret Keshner was first diagnosed with pyonephritis, a chronic kidney disease, in 1991.

She had to wait until her kidney dropped to 2 percent of its capacity before the transplant Oct. 26.

Since the transplant, she has been gaining strength each day.

"I feel wonderful," she said recently. "For the past three months I've had more energy than I have had for years."

Family members who recently gathered at the Keshner home said Margaret Keshner even had the energy to shovel some snow in the family's front yard recently. But for now, her daily activities are limited until she gains more strength.

"She can't go to work yet," Joe Keshner said. "She's on an anti-rejection medicine that shuts down her immune system. She can't catch a cold."

Margaret Keshner has been reading a medical book to determine what things she can do.

"I can ride my stationary bike and do light housework. Sometimes I get a little cabin fever being in here," she said. Ten pets, five cats and five dogs, also help to keep her busy.

Joe Keshner is a truck driver who lives in Denver. He also is doing well following the operation.

"I feel great," he said. "It basically took eight weeks to feel like I could go back to work full strength."

Judge Keshner and Mary Keshner said they're grateful the operation went well.

"Margaret was sick for so long, it's like her being reborn," said Judge Keshner. "She was dealing with a lot of unhappinesses and depression... Joe didn't give a gift of a kidney, he gave a gift of love."

"I feel wonderful. For the past three months I've had more energy than I have had for years."

Margaret Keshner
Kidney transplant recipient

Mary Keshner said the operation has provided a ray of sunshine in her daughter's life.

"She was sick enough for us to see a dramatic change. We were hoping that both of them would do well. We feel really blessed. It's a miracle," she said.

After the dosage amount of anti-rejection medicine can be decreased, Margaret Keshner hopes to work for Madison County State's Attorney Bill Haine.

Male coaches offer unique perspectives on women's basketball

Women's professional basketball still is struggling to find its audience but the women's amateur game is very much alive.

Witness the nationally televised women's college game Sunday when No. 1 Connecticut met No. 2 Tennessee. It matters not that Tennessee won the game of titans. The real winner was the women's game.

In my lifetime, the growth of women's sports has been amazing since the early 1970s. The skill level and competitiveness have improved immensely. Girls playing sports is no longer a novelty.

I was amazed at the caliber of play in the pre-Christmas girls basketball tournament in Fairview Heights, Belleville and O'Fallon. The event was sponsored by the Prairie State Games with the help of the Belleville Eliminators. I worked mostly at the eight-grade girls venue at Westhaven School in Belleville and was impressed by the level of play, both individually and team-wise.

Into this arena steps two well-known boys basketball coaches who are coaching girls basketball for the first time. Collinsville High's Steve McFall and Belleville Althoff's Don Haida both served as assistant coaches with their schools' boys teams before taking the girls coaching positions.

"There's no doubt that the girls are every bit as competitive as the boys," said McFall, who also serves as the CHS basketball coach. "Realistically, the girls can't do what the boys can do physically but their work ethic and ability to compete is as strong as the boys. They're fun to watch and everything has been positive to this point."

"The girls are very intense. They're very teachable and always listening and willing to learn. It's been a unique experience coaching the girls."

Haida's experience with the Crusaders girls team this winter also has been positive.

"My main attraction about the job was that it allowed me to be a head coach," Haida said. "The job came quickly. I had only two weeks to think about it but that adds an element of excitement to it."

Haida, an emotional sort, makes sure he deals with the emotional side of girls basketball.

"The girls are more emotional and sensitive than the boys," Haida said. "That can be a positive and a negative. They deal with things emotionally immediately on a daily basis. So you have to deal with it when it happens."

Haida admits he was "a little soft" on the girls at first.

"I didn't want to come in and be a dictator right away," Haida said. "After two weeks, I became a dictator. I really don't coach the girls any differently than the boys."

As to the question of whether it's better to have a man or a woman coaching the girls, Haida believes it really doesn't matter.

"As long as you have someone in there the girls respect, I don't think it makes any difference," Haida said. "It's really a neutral thing in my mind."

Key SWC games this weekend

If the weather allows this weekend's boys high school basketball games to be played, the Southwestern Conference race will be on again with some key games.

Granite City is at Collinsville 8 p.m. Friday night. The Warriors are 9-4 overall and 2-1 in conference play with league victories against Edwardsville (56-55) and Belleville West (63-46) in December. The Kahoks (6-6, 0-2) have lost to East St. Louis and Edwardsville.

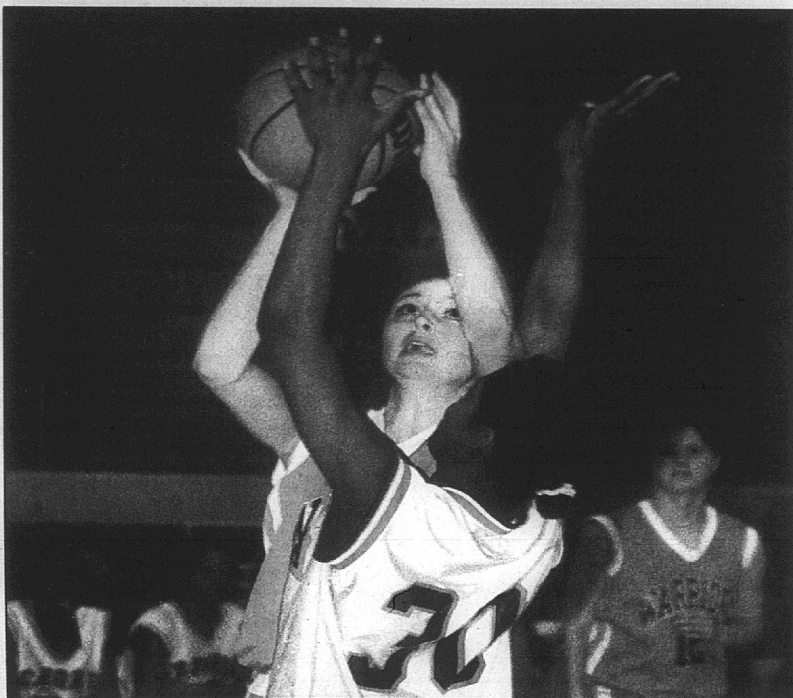

Collinsville hosts Belleville West (8-5, 2-2) on Saturday night.

The conference's showcase game is Saturday night when East St. Louis travels to Belleville East for a rematch of the Collinsville High/Schnucks Holiday Classic.

The Flyers (8-3 overall, 1-2 in conference) won that meeting but Belleville East (11-3) has not lost in four conference games.

Edwardsville (7-3, 2-2) is at Alton on Saturday.

Tabby Duff scored 19 points — 16 in the second quarter alone — and grabbed six rebounds to lead Granite City in a non-conference victory against Cahokia. The Warriors advanced to 12-9 with the victory.

Warriors crush Cahokia 69-52 who had mortared a nice garden enclosure for themselves.

But somebody had to win and the Warriors knocked off the Cahokia Comanches 69-52.

The Warriors came out on top thanks to the junior varsity's pure-shooting sudden wunderkind, Tabby Duff.

"I had no idea I was going to do this well because I hardly ever play varsity," said Duff, who had 15 points in the second quarter and ended up with 19 points and six rebounds for the night. "I'm really happy."

"I think we could have played better. We didn't start off very well, but I think we played well after that."

The rest of the Warriors were understandably enthused about Duff's saving-grace.

"Tabby played awesome and I'm so happy for her," said Debra Aaron, who had 14 points and 15 rebounds of her own. "We needed another player to step up and she did."

"I went in at halftime and said if Tabby Duff had the flu today, we would have been in trouble," Granite City coach John Moad said. "She came out and she carried us in the first half. I would hate to see where we would be without her tonight, especially in the first half."

Granite City's usual scoring stand-outs, Aaron and Jessica Wallace, rebounded after an iron-clanging first half. Wallace ended up with 11 points, five assists and three rebounds.

"Debra Aaron started playing a little better in the second half," Moad said. "She came out and really played aggressive. She wasn't hitting her shots but she was really working hard."

(See GCHS, Page 3B)

Granite City's Mike Simpson scored eight points and grabbed four rebounds for the Warriors in a 58-33 victory against Bethalto Civic Memorial on Jan. 6.

Warriors blast Civic Memorial

Granite City limits Eagles to 33 in non-conference victory

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

The Granite City boys basketball team put together a solid defensive effort in its first game after the holiday break and throttled Bethalto Civic Memorial 58-33 on Jan. 6.

BOYS BASKETBALL

Granite City center Chris Tindall said, "I think that's the first game where we came out and played really hard early. We started off not making a couple of shots but once we got in the flow of things, we just kept playing hard defense. They were only in the game in the first half. We started pressing them and they had a sophomore on the team that really couldn't handle the pressure, so we made sure to let him get the ball and then we attacked him."

"I thought everybody did a great job. Kevin (Elliott) hit some good shots, Mike (Simpson) had a couple, had a couple. Everybody did a great job. It was an all-around effort."

Matt Pistorius led the Warriors with 20 points. Zack May had 12 points, six assists and two steals. Elliott had 6 points on two 3-pointers and Simpson added 8 points and four rebounds. Tindall only scored 6 points but he pulled down seven defensive rebounds.

The Warriors circled the wagons and played stifling defense against Civic Memorial.

"We pressed them full-court," Granite City coach John VanBuskirk said. "I thought our aggressive play really took them out of a chance to win. We had been told that maybe they had trouble against full-court pressure."

"We got ahead 33-17 at half and it was mainly because of our aggressive play. Our press caused them to make quite a few turnovers and gave us some easy baskets. I thought that was probably the main part of the game. We had good performances from everybody. Everybody worked real hard defensively and offensively, and I think that really took them out of anything they tried to do."

"They weren't comfortable with that kind of pressure. They had more turnovers than they wanted to have and we jumped on them quick. At the end of the first quarter it was just 14-12, but after that we scored 19 points and they only scored five, so we wore them down pretty quick. We really won the game in the second quarter."

The press was a new wrinkle in the Warriors' attack as they tried to snap out of a recent funk.

"We had not pressed full-court like that before," VanBuskirk said. "We were kind of sluggish at the Collinsville Tournament. We didn't play well the last game (a 56-37 loss to Springfield Sacred Heart Griffin in the consolation championship) so we needed to change some things and try to snap out of it somehow. That's what we tried to do and the kids did a good job. They were ready to go. We worked pretty hard for a week in practice. The kids weren't happy with their performance (against Springfield SHG); nobody was. They wanted to come out and show hard and they did that, they did a good job."

The first quarter woes have bedeviled the Warriors all season, frequently making the last three quarters more difficult.

"We talk about it," VanBuskirk said. "We try to win every quarter."

Warriors, Kahoks gearing up for SWC test

By Brian Bretsch

Staff writer

This weekend may go a long way toward determining where the Collinsville boys basketball team finishes in the Southwestern Conference standings.

BOYS BASKETBALL

The Kahoks, 0-2 in the SWC, have back-to-back conference games on the agenda for Friday and Saturday.

They travel to Granite City 8 p.m. Friday night and return home Saturday for an 8 p.m. game with Belleville West. Collinsville also has announced the dates of postponed SWC games: The Kahoks will play Alton on Tuesday and Belleville East on Feb. 6.

This is a big weekend for us," Collinsville basketball coach Bob Bone said. "We are getting better. We are starting to do things the way we want to do them, but we still have some improvement to make and hopefully, we will continue to do that."

The Kahoks (6-4) made big strides against St. Louis Beaumont (a 55-47 victory on Jan. 9). That game followed a nine-day hiatus after Collinsville's back-to-back losses, Dec. 30 for a fourth-place finish in the Collinsville

High/Schnucks Holiday Classic.

"In some ways, I am sure it did help because we were able to get a lot more practice in and we didn't have to worry about preparing for anybody," Bone said. "Now we have a better idea of how we are trying to play. We're making progress."

Granite City (8-4) also was 2-2 in the Classic after finishing as the consolation bracket runner-up. Point guard Zach May is the Warriors catalyst with a supporting cast that includes Matt Pistorius, Chris Tindall and Kevin Elliott.

"I think (May) is their leader more or less because he handles the ball for them and gets them into their offense," Bone said. "He plays with a lot of emotion. I think they feed off of him. I think he played some as a freshman and has just improved every year. He is one of the best guards in the conference."

May is averaging 10.8 points a game and is an occasional threat with the 3-point shot.

Inside, the Warriors depend on Pistorius, a 6-foot-3 forward who averages 17.9 points per game. "Pistorius is another kid that has just gotten a little better every year," Bone said. "He has always had the ability to score around the basket. Now he has improved his range and can step out and shoot the ball, which just makes it that much harder to guard him."

Collinsville's inside game — keyed by Shaun Moore and Ray Price — was effective Saturday night against Beaumont.

"We saw Collinsville in the tournament and Saturday night," Granite City coach John Van Buren said. "They are a team that works extremely hard. They have some very good outside shooters. Moore is a nice inside player. We'll have our hands full. We'll have to play a very good, aggressive game against them and be very positive. Their record isn't that good, but don't let them sort that. They're not a bad ballclub."

The Kahoks' inside game is the key to their season.

"It is important that we get the ball inside," Bone said. "We can't force it in there but that is a big part of our gameplan. There are times when we start relying too much on the perimeter jumper. If you don't have the inside game, they are able to guard you that much better on the outside."

"It is important that we are able to have four or five people able to score," Bone added.

Della Moore scored 7 points and Janelle Hanks, who kept the Warriors in the game after Aaron picked up her second foul early, had 8 points.

"The whole team didn't shoot very well tonight," Moad said. "Our press didn't affect this team. They dribbled right through our press, and that's a concern because we have to press to be effective. We didn't do it very well tonight and that's something that we have to work on."

"The first quarter, we played pretty well but we didn't hit any shots early. You can play well and not shoot well, and that's what we did. Once we got off to that poor-shooting start, it just snowballed and our play went downhill. The confidence of the girls wasn't there and it took us a while to get there. We got it in spurts but we were never really comfortable running our offense."

The referees called 22 fouls on each team. Poorly-aimed shots weren't the only things flying freely.

"It was a physical game and everybody did their part," Moad said. "Della Moore had a pretty good game for us. Wallace did some things well. She didn't shoot well, but she did some other things well. Janelle Hanks played a great game tonight. First half, she and Abby had 22 of our points."

"We've got to take care of the ball better offensively. Our guards are turning the ball over too much and that's becoming a problem. We have to correct that in a hurry."

This was the second time this year the Comanches had their travel and mortar handed to them by Granite City. The Warriors won by more than 30 points in their show-down in the Alton Tournament.

"Coming here tonight, we knew that it wasn't going to be as easy as it was in that Alton Tournament," Moad said. "Their team played hard."

They're scrappy, but we got the win, that's what we came for. Obviously, we didn't play very well. But we are 12-9 going into the (regional) seeding meeting and we couldn't really ask to be in a better spot than that right now."

The Warriors have 10 days off before their next game, a rematch with Collinsville. The Kahoks beat the Warriors 59-31 in Collinsville last Wednesday.

"We are going to get back in shape," Moad said. "We are not in real good shape right now. I think you can see that in our press. We look tired. We are going to do some conditioning, short practices, and next week we'll start working and getting ready for Collinsville. I told the girls for the rest of this week to be ready to work hard."

•Warriors

perspective. Eight minutes isn't a long time, we can give everything we have for eight minutes, that's not too much to ask. We want to win every game, and obviously if you win every quarter you win the game. That's just something that we've tried to do, break it down into smaller sections. We did win the first quarter, so that's a positive that you take into the huddle and say, 'OK, good job, now let's make sure we win the second quarter and go from there.'"

"We're starting to look at overtime costs and fuel costs and maintenance costs that have occurred since the storm on Jan. 1," he said.

Sedlacek said the numbers for the village's budget were just starting to come together.

"As far as personal overtime for our employees, in the big picture of the total salary picture, we're probably not far off line, based on average snowfall this year," he said.

"If we continue to get heavy snowfalls through the whole month and February, it would be a different story," Sedlacek said.

In Edwardsville, city officials began the fiscal year last May 1 with $22.0 million budgeted for overtime for the Department of Public Works.

The overtime is designated for snow removal and other street emergencies, such as the windstorms last year that knocked down many large tree limbs.

Snow, ice straining local budgets

By Steve Whitworth
Staff writer

The recent round of snow and ice storms has strained the budgets of municipal public works departments in the area.

However, public works officials in both Edwardsville and Glen Carbon said the efforts to clear ice and snow from streets and roads will continue through the winter.

"It's a service we feel the taxpayers deserve," said Tom Sedlacek, director of public works for Glen Carbon. "We're doing everything we can to help them."

Sedlacek said Friday that village officials were only trying to determine how the overtime put in by street workers since New Year's Day will affect the village's budget.

"We're starting to look at overtime costs and fuel costs and maintenance costs that have occurred since the storm on Jan. 1," he said.

Sedlacek said the numbers for the village's budget were just starting to come together.

"As far as personal overtime for our employees, in the big picture of the total salary picture, we're probably not far off line, based on average snowfall this year," he said.

"If we continue to get heavy snowfalls through the whole month and February, it would be a different story," Sedlacek said.

In Edwardsville, city officials began the fiscal year last May 1 with $22.0 million budgeted for overtime for the Department of Public Works.

The overtime is designated for snow removal and other street emergencies, such as the windstorms last year that knocked down many large tree limbs.

"We just spent about $12,000 in overtime for this past snow event," said Tim Harr, assistant director of the city's public works department on Friday.

Harr said the city has spent nearly all of its overtime budget for the fiscal year. About 60 percent of the amount had been spent as of last month, he said.

Edwardsville buys its supply of salt for the roads out of its share of Motor Fuel Tax revenues appropriated to the city by the state.

"I think we're still below budget on that," Harr said. "We did use 700 tons of salt so far; that equates to $21,000."

Edwardsville will receive another delivery of salt next week.

"The quantity of salt is the least of our worries right now," Harr said.

This was the last time for the club to visit the home, as it is closing and the nuns will be transferred to other homes. Mike Sullivan took his magic guitar and Chuck Alexander donned the Santa outfit. They all enjoyed the visit very much.

After caroling, the group went to Don and Lyndia Bernabe's home for a Christmas party, where they enjoyed great food, music and exchanged gifts.

The next meeting will be at 7 p.m. Thursday at 3062 Pershall Road. Visitors and new members are welcome.

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED

Attorney At Law

When a person is involved in an auto accident, often that individual will have to make a decision regarding whether he will settle the case or take that case to trial. The majority of cases in this country settle prior to trial. A recent case will help illustrate the considerations involved in making this decision.

In this case, a forty-three year old woman (the plaintiff) was sitting in her vehicle at a stop sign when she was rear-ended by another car. She sustained whiplash injuries to the neck and back. She was a self-employed hairdresser at the time of the accident, and she missed approximately two months of work because of her injuries. The plaintiff's total lost wages in this case were approximately $3,000.

Following the accident, the plaintiff treated with a chiropractor for approximately four months. The total medical bills in this case, including the emergency room visit and the chiropractic treatment, were in the amount of

At the conclusion of the treatment, the insurance company offered $12,000 to settle this case. The plaintiff's question was whether she should settle short of trial or leave her fate in the hands of a jury. She had hoped for a better offer, but she really did not want to go to court in this matter.

Although a jury would possibly award her more money, she was made aware that it normally takes two to three years to get a case like this to trial. In addition, it was pointed out that this was strictly a soft tissue case without any long term hospitalization and without any surgery. Certainly the worse a person is hurt, the more they can expect from a jury.

Given all the considerations in this matter, the plaintiff decided to settle this case without the necessity of litigation. It is obvious from this set of facts that matters like this must be handled on a case by case basis.

Let's Go Fishing Show lures fans

The Let's Go Fishing Show is like a fish story: It keeps getting bigger and better.

The sixth annual show was held last weekend at Gateway Convention Center in Collinsville.

"The Let's Go Fishing Show has been one of the center's most successful and well-attended events over the course of the last six years," said Cindy Warke, executive director at Gateway Center.

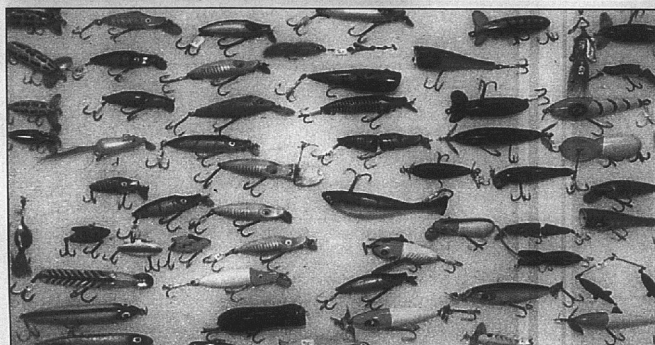

The theme of this year's show was variety. Show exhibitors displayed and sold a wide selection of fishing tackle, accessories and fishing boats. Resorts and organizations representing fishing activities and interests also were represented. Some of the 100 exhibitors included: Rodney's Bait & Tackle of Alton; MadDog Baits of Litchfield; Mike Prop Repair & Sales of Collinsville; Hughey's Canvas Shop of Lebanon; Quality Fiberglass and B&L Boat Covers, both of Granite City; and Bob Folder Lures of Springfield.

A fly-fishing display was added last year and returned this year. Feather-Craft Fly Fishing of St. Louis had for sale St. Croix Fly Rods, Cortland Reels, Polarfleece clothing and various fly-tying materials. Company representatives performed fly-tying demonstrations.

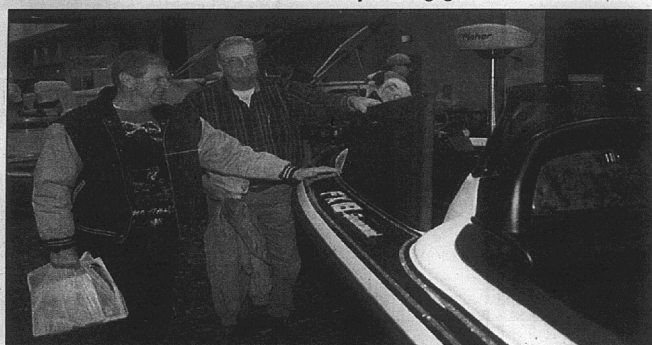

The Let's Go Fishing Show also featured a display of antique lures and fishing equipment, seminars and activities geared toward children.

This extensive collection of antique lures is owned by Jim Muma of Belleville.

Today's Trivia

'Lughnasa' coming to Alton stage

Theatergoers can journey to 1930s' Ireland and join five sisters on their search for meaning in the Tony Award-winning play, "Dancing at Lughnasa," to be staged at Alton Little Theater.

Capturing the Tony's best play honors in 1992, Brian Friel's modern classic has been compared to Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie" and was recently released as a movie starring Meryl Streep.

The plot focuses on the Mundy sisters, who live in a small village in Donegal County. Hemmed in by society, the sisters seek out simple pleasures to escape the economic and societal hardships weighing them down. A jubilant village festival called Lughnasa reminds the sisters of their missing joy.

The production will run for nine performances from Jan. 29 through Feb. 7. Show times will be 8 p.m. Jan. 29-30 and Feb. 2-6. Two Sunday matinees will begin at 2 p.m. Jan. 31 and Feb. 7. Admission is $10 for adults, $5 for students with an I.D.

"This is an absorbing, true-to-life tale that draws you into the lives of these sisters," said director Diana Enloe of Alton.

For reservations, call the theater's recorded information line at 462-6562.

The hills come alive

Snow, ice
give sledders
a good ride

By Becky Garrison
Staff writer

Motorists may not have appreciated the ice and freezing rain storms that have hit the area in the first two weeks of 1999. But for some youngsters on sleds, it has been a blast.

"The ice makes it faster to slide," said 12-year-old Mike Crow of Freeburg after he zoomed down a hill at Pleasant Ridge Park in Fairview Heights last week.

He and Nathan Ponsler, 13, also of Freeburg, were enjoying a day off from school. Mike said he has been coming to Pleasant Ridge since he was 4 years old, and the hill is the best it has ever been.

Although Nathan was having a great time, he was already thinking ahead to the next day.

"I hope we don't have school tomorrow," he said.

Michele Rosen, 14, and Ashley Williams, 13, both of Caseyville, said the best sled to use on the glazed, icy-snow mix is the intertube.

"The plastic is too painful," Rosen said.

Both girls were not looking forward to the possibility of having school on the next day.

"We don't have our homework done yet," said Williams.

Musical looks at
modern day love

'Left Turn Signal' set for SIUE stage

"Continuous Left Turn Signal" will be performed at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 21 and 22 in the James F. Metcalf Theater at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

A musical, the play looks at finding and defining love in the modern world.

The play is written and directed by Peter Banholzer, a technical director in the SIUE Department of Theater and Dance, with music by Jon Hildenstein.

Banholzer said the play's action revolves around a man named Alex, who lives an empty life.

"He wants to be happy and in love," Banholzer said. "So God helps Alex look inside himself to truly understand love. We get to hear from Alex's three 'centers': his brain, his heart and his manhood.

"The play looks at the questions we all want answered," he said. "It's about the things we want in life: to be satisfied, to be a better persons and to be happy."

Sledding is Art Hill tradition

Hill in Forest Park has been a popular spot for decades

By Glen Sparks
Staff writer

A little push, and away go children and adults on one of St. Louis' most thrilling wintertime rides.

It's a tradition. Bring a sled and take a trip down snow-covered Art Hill in Forest Park.

nephews to Art Hill.

"It's a great way to get rid of the stress," Ebenrick says. "You forget the hassles and just ride down the hill."

Sledding isn't hard, he says. The sled does most of the work.

"You just put your feet up and push," he says.

Robert Ebenrick

sledders rode, bounced, skipped and skimmed over the icy snow.

A winter storm pelted St. Louis with almost eight inches of snow and ice on New Year's Day. What drivers hate, sledders love.

Karen Nappier of De Soto took her five children sledding here after stopping off at a Chuck E. Cheese restaurant.

"I said, 'Let's go to Art Hill and go sledding,'" she says. "I used to come here a lot years ago.

"They're having a blast."

sledders not much different from Ebenrick's advice. It is in the same spirit, though.

"Just go," Casey says. Art Hill might not be the best place he has gone sledding, he decides, but "It's close enough. It has good bumps."

A couple of minutes later, Casey plopped down on his sled, pushed off with his arms and — whoosh — he was gone.

Of course, just about all sledders want to go as fast as possible down the hill. Matt Kuhnert of South County complained he couldn't build up enough speed, though.

"It's slushy," Kuhnert said on an afternoon in which temperatures crept into the 30s after a period of much colder weather. "I think some of it has melted."

Josh Williamson disagreed. He said the slick mix of snow and ice offered just the right recipe for fun.

"The ice makes it that much slicker," he says.

Williamson and some of his friends built a little ramp near the bottom of the hill to add some more thrills to the ride.

"Now everyone's using it," Williamson says.

Standing on top of Art Hill, Ebenrick considered another plunge to the bottom. Of all the frozen, snowy hillsides in St. Louis, Art Hill is his favorite.

says. "Everyone's just out here having a good time." Park ranger Emmett Costello says the group on Jan. 6 didn't compare to some of the sledding crowds on previous days.

"There were probably 2,000 or 3,000 people out here Sunday (Jan. 3)," he says.

Art Hill is open for sledding every day — winter weather cooperating — from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Don't laugh. Some people could keep on sledding all night long.

"Oh, man, yea," Costello says. "They're still trying to come out after 10 o'clock."

Sledding injuries can be serious

Hospitals treat variety of injuries

By Glen Sparks
Staff writer

The icy snow that has blanketed St. Louis is taking a toll on young sledders.

Through noon last Friday, SSM/Cardinal Glennon Children's Hospital had treated 35 patients for snow-related injuries, said hospital spokeswoman Kathleen Reznikov.

"It's been a really bad stretch," said Dr. Jim Gerard, an emergency room physician at SSM/Cardinal Glennon Children's Hospital.

Gerard said he has treated children with fractures, sprains, facial cuts, dislocated shoulders and similar injuries.

"We haven't had any that have really been life-threatening, but some of these still have been serious injuries," Gerard said.

Certain injuries often are related to a child's age, said Dr. Doug Carlson of St. Louis Children's Hospital.

"Children under 5 suffer the most severe injuries to the head, neck, face and abdomen," Carlson said.

Injuries to the leg and arm are more common in older children who often use their limbs to break a fall.

Doctors often see accidents because of sledders sitting down to ride tobaggans and inner tubes, said Dr. David Hartenbach, a pediatrician who refers patients to St. Louis Children's Hospital.

"A hard bump on rough terrain can send the rider up in the air and down with force," Hartenbach said.

Hartenbach recommends these safe sledding tips:

- Choose sled with a steering mechanism. These help riders avoid dangerous objects.

- Consider a metal runner sled over a plastic one. Runner sleds elevate riders off the ground and away from small, stationary objects.

- Inspect the terrain. Hills should be wide and free of objects such as trees and rocks.

Travolta is enjoying his movie 'renaissance'

After career downturn, he is back on top again

John Travolta had just returned from Texas where he had been checked out to pilot his Boeing 707. He was still flying high.

Understandable. He had fulfilled one of the great ambitions in his longtime pursuit of flying. He had a new film headed for theaters this winter. And he was resting comfortably among the half-dozen male film stars whose international appeal and ability to "open" a movie in its first weekend allow them to demand salaries of $20 million, plus benefits that can double that.

John Travolta remains a rarity among film stars. He roared to the heights with "Saturday Night Fever," "Grease" and "Urban Cowboy," and plummeted just as swiftly with a handful of bad choices. Now he's back on top again.

If you expect him to recall the down period with tales of depression and despair, forget it. His attitude remains upbeat, even serene.

"I'd like to make it more dramatic, but it wasn't," he insisted during an interview at a West Side hotel. "I've always been too aware of the 'business' side of this (film) industry."

"You're a commodity, to some degree. If you choose the wrong projects, or they don't turn out the way you or the studio want them to, then your value or viability goes down, but only on a superficial level. Not your talent. Not your ability. OK?"

"I was always aware of that, and all my choices I made on my own. I had no one to blame. So for the time that I wasn't getting the top scripts or getting as many offers as I started out getting, there was no one to blame but myself. I could live with that."

The down period started in 1981 with "Blow Out" and continued with "Staying Alive," "Two of a Kind" and "Perfect." He enjoyed a small revival in 1989 with the hit comedy "Look Who's Talking," but the star was a talking baby (the voice of Bruce Willis). Travolta appeared in two negligible sequels.

"I was still making a good living," Travolta recalled. "Sorry I wasn't on every (magazine) cover or being sought after by the top studios. But I did work, I did well, I had an occasional hit.

"It wasn't until 'Pulp Fiction' (1994) that it was all rekindled again. Then the top scripts came again: 'A Civil Action,' 'Face/Off,' 'Primary Colors.'"

"A Civil Action" debuted in Los Angeles and New York on Christmas Day, getting under the wire for Academy Award consideration. Based on Jonathan Harr's best seller about a real-life legal battle, it focuses on Jan Schlichtmann (Travolta), a personal injury

'Amateur' exhibits photos

Show opens at Historical Museum

By Sanford J. Schmidt
Staff writer

An exhibit at the Madison County Historical Museum in Edwardsville features photographic works by a woman who describes herself as strictly an amateur.

The special exhibit by Kathryn H. Barkson, a museum volunteer, features everything from her favorite pets to European cathedrals. "A variety of subjects from cathedrals to kittens and beyond are highlighted in these 29 fascinating photographs," said Anna Symansky, superintendent of the museum. "She has some interesting photos to present."

The display began Sunday and will continue during regular museum hours through March 14. The museum, 715 N. Main St., is open Sundays from 1 to 4 p.m. and Wednesdays through Fridays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Barkson, 66, said she became interested in photography through her travels abroad. "I got interested in photography by going to Elderhostels," she said, adding that she surprised herself at how well her photographs turned out. Her first photos were with a cheap camera while on a trip to Paris.

"It was a little Ansco I picked up at Wal-Mart for $50," she said. "I should have stayed with it."

She shot photos while on a balloon ride over the fields surrounding Paris. The view included wheat fields and fields of flowers that reminded her of the paintings of Vincent van Gogh.

"It wasn't until after we got back down that I realized how much fun I had," she said. Closer to earth, she photographed the Eiffel Tower and other landmarks.

"It was fabulous, and after that ride I was hooked," Barkson said.

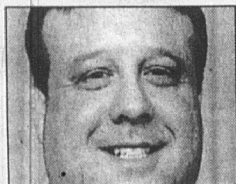

Barkson has taken pictures of cathedrals in Russia and other landmarks, as well as other subjects closer to home.

Barkson likes taking pictures of snow and natural settings that have the look of abstract art. She said that before this display at the museum, her only other public showing has been at her church.

Don't avoid movies you don't know

Quality films are often overlooked

Trivia

Kevin Carbery

With winter having arrived with a vengeance, it's that time of the year when people want to stay in and turn to movie video rentals for their entertainment.

However, many cheat themselves out of great film-watching experiences by going after only popular titles. There is much more out there than "Titanic" and "Jurassic Park."

If you enjoy comedies, I would suggest "Water" from 1985. The movie stars Michael Caine and concerns a Caribbean British island on which a well of valuable mineral water is discovered.

Another good one is "Hear My Song," from 1991. It stars Ned Beatty as an Irish singing star trying to avoid British tax men.

Both of these are clever pictures which provide many laughs. Some other funny films often overlooked are "Tapeheads," "Radio Days," "My Favorite Year," "The Survivors" and "The Commitments."

I also recommend virtually anything that John Sayles has directed and/or written.

"Lone Star," from 1996, is one of my favorite motion pictures of this decade. "Eight Men Out" is the best film concerning baseball I have ever seen. "The Secret of Roan Inish" is entertaining for kids and adults. Sayles wrote the screenplay for "Breaking In," a tremendous sleeper of a movie starring Burt Reynolds.

Another rule of thumb is that if Jeff Bridges is in a film, it should be worth your time, to say the least. "The Fabulous Baker Boys" is well known, but other Bridges flicks such as "Fearless," "Starman," "The Fisher King" and "Tucker: The Man and His Dream" all are engrossing. A good overlooked drama is "Clean and Sober," with Michael Keaton. "The Long Riders," starring the Keach, Carradine, Quaid and Guest brothers as the James, Younger, Miller and Ford brothers, is an interesting Western.

Finally, keep in mind the Classics shelf when you go to a video movie rental store. If you see names such as Humphrey Bogart, Alfred Hitchcock, Cary Grant, Katharine Hepburn, the Marx Brothers or W.C. Fields on the box, rent it.

This week's quiz is on the movies.

1. Who won an Oscar for her performance in the Woody Allen film "Bullets Over Broadway"?

2. The character Max Bialystock tries to pull off a major scam in what hilarious movie?

3. Peter Sellers plays a simpleton who miraculously becomes a leading political figure in which of his comedies?

4. What is the name of the 1994 film in which a youngster outwits druglords by using techniques he has learned from playing chess?

5. Who plays the father in "Searching For Bobby Fischer"?

6. Who plays the young sailor under arrest in the Jack Nicholson film "The Last Detail"?

7. In what 1994 movie does a woman convince her dimwitted lover to steal her husband's drug money?

8. Who is the only person to say a word out loud in the Mel Brooks film "Silent Movie"?

9. In what film does Robin Williams play the man on the moon?

10. Leonardo DiCaprio plays the retarded younger brother of Johnny Depp in what motion picture?

ANSWERS: 1. Diane Wiest. 2. "The Producers." 3. "Being There." 4. "Fresh." 5. Joe Montana. This is another excellent film involving chess. 6. Randy Quaid. 7. "The Last Seduction." Director John Dahl is another name to seek out at video stores. 8. The mime Marcel Marceau, who says the word "No." 9. "The Adventures of Baron Munchausen." 10. "What's Eating Gilbert Grape?"

Kevin Carbery can be heard as a regular on "The Entertainment and Trivia Show" from 8-11 p.m. Sundays on KMOX Radio (1120 AM).

HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, JANUARY 14

The moon in Scorpio adds intrigue to all proceedings. It is not necessary to illuminate every fact that comes into the mix. Respecting boundaries and keeping secrets will be greatly appreciated. If you want to be a good friend, be ready to listen, but don't ask questions. If you want to attract romance, be mysteriously unavailable.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Jan. 14) You attract much attention this year as you take on challenge with admirable courage. Spend time being comfortable and enjoying family this month. You have such tremendous success in the spring, others could become jealous. There is no excuse for a badly behaving friend this March. You may have to cut ties, but you are ready for more mutually inspirational friendships anyway.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Victory in a legal matter is quite likely. Young people in your family or neighborhood could use help and understanding. Observe yourself this evening, especially in regards to the frequency of caring, tender expressions.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Study improves your natural business skills. You have an admirer, but you may not learn who it is for a week. Your ability to communicate truthfully is appreciated this week. Your listening skills will soon be equally admired.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21) You want more money but are not willing to give up much more of your time. It's a sign that you should consider a different type of work altogether. Figure out a way to defuse a small-minded co-worker's jealousy.

CANCER (June 22-July 22) Anything you can do for a short period of time, you can do for a longer period of time. Get control over your emotions, and learn to think of problems in a new light. Major growth happens because you refuse to be a victim.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Work possibilities look promising, but explore before quitting a current post. Sudden passion shouldn't surprise you, since love is not something you can predict. Someone new will appreciate your enthusiasm.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) New work brings you unexpected satisfaction and enhances relations with colleagues. Spend time with the one who inspires you to do your best. You'll have laughter

The legal drama "A Civil Action" was
No. 1 in its first weekend of wide release but the overall box office suffered from cold weather and the usual post-holiday letdown, according to estimates Sunday.

"A Civil Action," starring John Travolta as a vain attorney who wagers everything on a toxic waste case, had $14.5 million to lead the North American box office. It played on just two screens for two weeks before expanding to 1,802 locations last weekend.

It had one of the best January weekends for a movie, trailing only "Titanic" and the reissue of "Star Wars."
However, overall grosses for the top films were off nearly 15 percent from the same weekend last year as attendance dropped for "Patch Adams" and plunged sharply for others, according to Exhibitor Relations Co. Inc.

With two down weekends in a row now, the movie year is getting off to a slower start than "Titanic"-powered 1998, which set records in both ticket sales and attendance.

"You're facing last year which had the all-time granddaddy in 'Titanic.' We're going to pale in comparison to that," said Chuck Viane, a Walt Disney Co.
distribution executive. "But when you look at the depth of the $1 million Saturday — it's very, vvery good for the industry."

Snowy and chilly weather in the Northeast also played a factor for the second straight weekend, and people returned to work and school after the holidays.

"Patch Adams" had $12 million for second place. The Robin Williams-starring story of a medical student who heals with humor lost 37 percent of its business in its third week to bring its total to $82.8 million.

The next five movies showed drop-offs between 42 percent and 49 percent. But in eighth place, "Shakespeare in Love" had a 26 percent increase with $4 million.

The World War II epic "The Thin Red Line" continued to do well in limited release, collecting $1.2 million on 61 screens for a per-location average of $19,672.

Here are estimated grosses at North American theaters for Friday through Sunday as compiled by Exhibitor Relations:

1. "A Civil Action," $14.5 million.
2. "Patch Adams," $12 million.
3. "Stepmom," $8 million.
4. "You've Got Mail," $7.7 million.
5. "The Prince of Egypt," $5.8 million.
6. "Mighty Joe Young," $4.7 million.
7. "A Bug's Life," $4.5 million.
8. "Shakespeare in Love," $4 million.
9. "The Faculty," $4 million.
10. "Enemy of the State," $3 million.
10. "Star Trek: Insurrection," $3 million.

lawyer who combats two industry giants over suspected pollution that may have caused leukemia deaths of children in Woburn, Mass. He pursues the case demonically, bankrupting himself and his small law firm.

Travolta, 44, came to the interview dressed entirely in black.
He smiles a lot, as well he should, and he exudes confidence. He has a habit of trying to reverse the interview by asking questions of the reporter.

Travolta's acute sense of perspective may stem from his early start as an actor and his upbringing in an Irish-Italian theater family. He began acting at 12 in summer theater, moved to off-Broadway and Broadway ("Grease"), dropping out of school at 16.

"I was embraced by the old-timers in this business," he said with a degree of pride. "Barbara Stanwyck, Jimmy Cagney, Gene Kelly, Fred Astaire — they were all very fond of me. I would dine with them, and I felt more at home with them than I did with my peers.

"Jimmy wouldn't talk a lot, but he had something to say when he did. Gene and Fred would talk about me: 'How's the kid?'
Barbara I had a terrible crush on; I gave her an Academy Award for lifetime achievement. I miss all of them. They were terrific people."

Those greats may have helped shape Travolta's philosophy about the film world. He reasoned:

"It's a business. The last four years I've had many top projects, and they've all done very well. But (the down period) could happen again. So you brush yourself off and start all over again.

"You make a good movie, and you're up on top. You make a bad movie, and you fall again. It's no different from any other industry. You just have to be able to handle either situation. ...

"No one can take your abilities away from you. Maybe someone can take your employment away from you. Not your abilities."
